Philosophy

Philosophy is the study of general and fundamental questions about existence, knowledge, values, reason, mind, and language. Such questions are often posed as problems to be studied or resolved. Major sub-fields of academic philosophy include metaphysics, epistemology, ethics, aesthetics, political philosophy, logic and philosophy of science.

- Book: An Introduction to Philosophy (Payne)

- Book: Introduction to Philosophy - Philosophy of Mind (Salazar Ed.)
Book: Words of Wisdom - Introduction to Philosophy (Ondich)

Book: Modern Philosophy (Ott and Dunn)

Book: Introduction to Philosophy Reader (Levin et al.)

Book: Ancient Philosophy Reader (Levin)
- Book: Philosophy of Western Religions (Levin et al.)
- Book: Political Philosophy Reader (Levin et al.)
- Book: South and East Asian Philosophy Reader (Levin et al.)
- Book: Inferring and Explaining (Johnson)
Book: Metaethics from a First Person Standpoint - An Introduction to Moral Philosophy (Wilson)

Book: Introduction to History and Philosophy of Science (Barseghyan, Overgaard, and Rupik)

Book: A Concise Introduction to Logic (DeLancey)

Map: An Introduction to Formal Logic (Magnus)
Book: Critical Reasoning and Writing (Levin et al.)

Thumbnail: The Death of Socrates (1787) by Jacques-Louis David (Public Domain).