Philosophy

Philosophy is the study of general and fundamental questions about existence, knowledge, values, reason, mind, and language. Such questions are often posed as problems to be studied or resolved. Major sub-fields of academic philosophy include metaphysics, epistemology, ethics, aesthetics, political philosophy, logic and philosophy of science.

- Book: An Introduction to Philosophy (Payne)

- Book: Introduction to Philosophy - Philosophy of Mind (Salazar Ed.)
- Book: Philosophy of Western Religions (Levin et al.)

- Book: Political Philosophy Reader (Levin et al.)

- Book: South and East Asian Philosophy Reader (Levin et al.)

- Book: Inferring and Explaining (Johnson)
- Book: Introduction to Ethics (Levin et al.)
- Book: Ethics (Fisher and Dimmock)
- Book: Animals & Ethics 101 - Thinking Critically About Animal Rights (Nobis)
- Book: Thinking Critically About Abortion (Nobis and Grob)
Book: Metaethics from a First Person Standpoint - An Introduction to Moral Philosophy (Wilson)

- Book: A Concise Introduction to Logic (DeLancey)

- Map: An Introduction to Formal Logic (Magnus)

- Book: Fundamental Methods of Logic (Knachel)
• Book: Introduction to Logic and Critical Thinking (van Cleave)

• Map: A Modern Formal Logic Primer (Teller)

• Book: Logical Reasoning (Dowden)

• Book: Critical Reasoning and Writing (Levin et al.)

Thumbnail: The Death of Socrates (1787) by Jacques-Louis David (Public Domain).